Why is Independently Tested Accuracy of this Assessment Important?

A recent review revealed a significant majority of assessments available today were absent the studies & reporting to confirm their accuracy. Of the small minority which claimed reporting, the significant majority of those were conducted privately; oftentimes by the assessment provider itself, rather than an objective and scientifically qualified third party. However, we are leading by example in this otherwise unregulated industry. How are we doing this? By submitting our assessments to an objective, independently conducted battery of tests: Construct Validity, Reliability, and Disparate Impact - all by a qualified scientific authority (Assessment Standards Institute). Our goal? Ensuring the trust and confidence of our users by producing the industry's most accurate and class protected assessments. Please turn to the last page of this report to learn more on this topic, and the steps we've taken to safeguard the scientific accuracy of this assessment.

Welcome to the DISCovering My Leadership Style Report

Introduction

Leadership requires developing competencies – specific capabilities and skills, however knowing your character (the strengths, and qualities of your personality), is critical to becoming a successful leader. If you are a leader with impeccable character, you will lead, inspire and win wherever you go. When you know the strengths and qualities of your style and can observe these in others, you will be well on the way to becoming a great leader, for dealing with conflict or motivating others to succeed.

DISC is a simple, practical, easy to remember and universally applicable observable behavior model. It focuses on individual patterns of external, observable behaviors and measures the intensity of characteristics using scales of directness and openness for each of the four styles: Dominance, Influence, Steadiness, and Conscientious.

Using the DISC model, it is easy to identify and understand our own style, recognize and adapt to different styles, and develop a process to communicate more effectively with others.

How to use this Report

The DISC report is divided into 3 parts introducing the DISC model, helping you understand your own style, and identifying ways that you can apply your style strengths or modify your style weaknesses in order to meet the needs of others, when in a leadership role.

- Part I focuses on understanding each of the DISC styles and identifying characteristics, including the tendencies of each behavioral style
- Part II is about understanding yourself and will reveal information about the tendencies that make you unique
- Part III examines and explores adaptability and offers actionable recommendations for you and others who interact with you

With this personalized and comprehensive report, DISC gives you tools to help you become a better you - to develop and use more of your natural strengths while recognizing, improving upon, and modifying your limitations. Then, because we can easily see and hear these behaviors, we can quickly and accurately "read" other people and use our knowledge to enhance communication and grow our relationships.

Please Note: Any behavioral descriptions mentioned in this report are only tendencies for your style group and may or may not specifically apply to you personally.

Part I Understanding DISC

Behavioral Styles

Historical and contemporary research reveals more than a dozen various models of our behavioral differences, but many share one common thread: the grouping of behavior into four basic categories.

The DISC styles are Dominance, Influence, Steadiness, and Conscientious. There is no "best" style. Each style has its unique strengths and opportunities for continuing improvement and growth.

The DISCovering My Leadership assessment examines external and easily observable behaviors and measures tendencies using scales of directness and openness that each style exhibits.

DOMINANCE	INFLUENCE	STEADINESS	CONSCIENTIOUS
Decisive	Charming	Understanding	Accurate
Competitive	Confident	Friendly	Precise
Daring	Convincing	Good Listener	Analytical
Direct	Enthusiastic	Patient	Compliant
Innovative	Inspiring	Relaxed	Courteous
Persistent	Optimistic	Sincere	Diplomatic
Adventurous	Persuasive	Stable	Detailed
Problem Solver	Sociable	Steady	Fact Finder
Results Oriented	Trusting	Team Player	Objective

Behavior Descriptors of each Style

Directness and Openness of each Style

STYLE	TENDENCIES
Dominance	Tends to be direct and guarded
Influence	Tends to be direct and open
Steadiness	Tends to be indirect and open
Conscientious	Tends to be indirect and guarded

Pace and Priority of Each Style

PACE AND PRIORITY represent two of the main sources of tension between the styles:

- D and C and, I and S have different PACES:
  - D and I are FASTER PACED, and S and C are SLOWER PACED.
- D and I and, S and C have different PRIORITIES:
   D and C are TASK ORIENTATED, and I and S are PEOPLE ORIENTATED.
- D and S and, I and C have BOTH PACE AND PRIORITY DIFFERENCES.

Observe the behavior of these style combinations and notice the focus and intensity of energy being used.

Modifying Your Directness and Openness

When you are in some interpersonal situations, it is sometimes easier to identify another person's directness OR openness, but not both. In these situations, learn how to practice adaptability, one behavioral dimension at a time. With that in mind, let's look at what you can do to modify YOUR level of Directness or Openness.

DIRECTNESS...

TO INCREASE:	TO DECREASE:
<ul> <li>Speak, move and make decisions at a faster space.</li> <li>Initiate conversation and decisions.</li> <li>Give recommendations.</li> <li>Use direct statements rather than roundabout questions.</li> <li>Use a strong and confident voice.</li> <li>Increase your eye contact.</li> <li>Challenge and tactfully disagree when appropriate.</li> <li>Face conflict openly, but don't clash with the person.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Talk, walk and make decisions slowly.</li> <li>Ask for and acknowledge other's opinions.</li> <li>Share decision-making.</li> <li>Do not interrupt.</li> <li>When talking, provide pauses to give others a chance to speak.</li> <li>When disagreeing choose words carefully.</li> <li>Refrain from criticizing, challenging or acting too pushy.</li> </ul>

OPENNESS...

TO INCREASE:	TO DECREASE:
Share feelings; show more emotion.	• Get right to the task - give the bottom line.
<ul> <li>Respond to the expression of other's</li> </ul>	Maintain more of a logical, factual feelings.	orientation.
Give others personal compliments.	• Do not waste the other person's time.
Use friendly language.	• Stay on track.
• Take time to develop the relationship.	Be respectful of the other person's
• Communicate more; loosen up and stand	personal space.
closer when appropriate.	Downplay your enthusiasm and body
• Be willing to digress from the topic being	movement.
spoken about.

A Deeper look at the Four DISC Styles

Below is a chart to help you understand some of the characteristics of each of the Four Basic DISC Styles, so you can interact with each style more effectively. Although behavioral style is only a partial description of personality, it is quite useful in describing how a person behaves, and is perceived, in personal, social and work situations.

	HIGH DOMINANT STYLE	HIGH INFLUENCING STYLE	HIGH STEADY STYLE	HIGH CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE
Tends to Act	Assertive	Persuasive	Patient	Contemplative
When in Conflict, this Style	Demands Action	Attacks	Complies	Avoids
Needs	Control	Approval	Routine	Standards
Primary Drive	Independence	Interaction	Stability	Correctness
Preferred Tasks	Challenging	People related	Scheduled	Structured
Comfortable with	Being decisive	Social friendliness	Being part of a team	Order and planning
Personal Strength	Problem solver	Encourager	Supporter	Organizer
Strength Overextended	Preoccupation on goals over people	Speaking without thinking	Procrastination in addressing change	Over analyzing everything
Personal Limitation	Too direct and intense	Too disorganized and nontraditional	Too indecisive and indirect	Too detailed and impersonal
Personal Wants	Control, Variety	Approval, Less Structure	Routine, Harmony	Standards, Logic
Personal Fear	Losing	Rejection	Sudden Change	Being Wrong
Blind Spots	Being held accountable	Follow through on commitments	Embracing need for change	Making decisions without analysis
Needs to Work on	Empathy, Patience	Controlling emotions Follow through	Being assertive when pressured	Worrying less about everything
Measuring Maturity	Giving up control	Objectively handling rejection	Standing up for self when confronted	Not being defensive when criticized
Under Stress May Become	Dictatorial Critical	Sarcastic Superficial	Submissive Indecisive	Withdrawn Headstrong
Measures Worth by	Impact or results Track record	Acknowledgments Compliments	Compatibility Contributions	Precision, Accuracy Quality of results

DISC Styles Communication Preferences

Communicating with the DOMINANT Style

SO YOU SHOULD
Show them how to win, new opportunities
Display reasoning
Provide concise data
Agree on goal and boundaries, the support or get out of their way
Allow them to "do their thing," within limits
Vary routine
Look for opportunities to modify their workload focus
Compliment them on what they've done
Let them take the lead, when appropriate, but give them parameters
If necessary, argue with conviction on points of disagreement, backed up with facts; don't argue on a "personality" basis

Communicating with the INFLUENCING Style

I CHARACTERISTICS:	SO YOU SHOULD
Concerned with approval and appearances	Show them that you admire and like them
Seek enthusiastic people and situations	Behave optimistically and provide upbeat setting
Think emotionally	Support their feelings when possible
Want to know the general expectations	Avoid involved details, focus on the "big picture"
Need involvement and people contact	Interact and participate with them
Like changes and innovations	Vary the routine; avoid requiring long-term repetition by them
Want others to notice THEM	Compliment them personally and often
Often need help getting organized	Do it together
Look for action and stimulation	Keep up a fast, lively, pace
Surround themselves with optimism	Support their ideas and don't poke holes in their dreams; show them your positive side
Want feedback that they "look good"	Mention their accomplishments, progress and your other genuine appreciation

Communicating with the STEADY Style

S CHARACTERISTICS:	SO YOU SHOULD
Concerned with stability	Show how your idea minimizes risk
Think logically	Show reasoning
Want documentation and facts	Provide data and proof
Like personal involvement	Demonstrate your interest in them
Need to know step-by-step sequence	Provide outline and/or one-two-three instructions as you personally "walk them through"
Want others to notice their patient perseverance	Compliment them for their steady follow-through
Avoid risks and changes	Give them personal assurances
Dislike conflict	Act non-aggressively, focus on common interest or needed support
Accommodate others	Allow them to provide service or support for others
Look for calmness and peace	Provide a relaxing, friendly atmosphere
Enjoy teamwork	Provide them with a cooperative group
Want sincere feedback that they're appreciated	Acknowledge their easygoing manner and helpful efforts, when appropriate

Communicating with the CONSCIENTIOUS Style

C CHARACTERISTICS:	SO YOU SHOULD
Concerned with aggressive approaches	Approach them in an indirect, nonthreatening way
Think logically	Show your reasoning
Seek data	Give data to them in writing
Need to know the process	Provide explanations and rationale
Utilize caution	Allow them to think, inquire and check before they make decisions
Prefer to do things themselves	When delegating, let them check procedures, and other progress and performance before they make decisions
Want others to notice their accuracy	Compliment them on their thoroughness and correctness when appropriate
Gravitate toward quality control	Let them assess and be involved in the process when possible
Avoid conflict	Tactfully ask for clarification and assistance you may need
Need to be right	Allow them time to find the best or "correct" answer, within available limits
Like to contemplate	Tell them "why" and "how

KEY DISTINCTION: The first step to building stronger communication is awareness. By identifying how we are similar and different, we can make cognitive choices when interacting to create stronger, more engaged relationships.

Part II Understanding Yourself

General Characteristics

Monique, let the narration below serve as an overview of how others might describe your overall general style or tendencies – also known as your personal DISC style. Use this report to help you see the behaviors you have found work for you to get the results you get. Look for the key ideas it reveals which would help you maximize your personal success while providing your greatest career satisfaction.

You score like others who tend to be more modest than egocentric, but also have the ability to become assertive when necessary for emphasis or communication. This means that you may surprise people at times when you take a firm stand on an issue, after initially being more open-minded. When you see quality suffering because of a decision or direction, you'll take a firm and assertive position and push for higher standards.

You like working independently, but have the ability to manage workloads and delegate responsibilities when necessary. Your multifaceted operational style allows for success in a variety of situations. Your interest in people drives you to be involved with others, and your high level of patience helps you follow through on details of a project. In addition, your high quality control standards allow you to make adjustments in your own work style in order for things to get done correctly.

You demonstrate a high degree of competence in your areas of expertise, and continuously strive to improve your skills and knowledge base. This trait comes from a few sources: your high interest in quality control, your natural curiosity, and your patience in learning and doing things the right way. When you succeed in an area, you tend to raise the bar and subsequently try to improve. This makes you an excellent role model for others on the team.

Monique, your response pattern to the instrument indicates that you are an excellent listener, and you are able to get along with a variety of people in many situations. This is a strength that should assist you in the workplace and in your personal life. This trait comes from your enthusiasm, and your sincere interest in others. You are able to maintain high standards, and at the same time be flexible when necessary.

Monique, you tend to be optimistic and encouraging to others. This comes not only from your natural positive spirit, but also from your high degree of sincerity. When combined, these traits allow you to maintain a positive attitude even in the midst of high stress or negativity in the workplace. This attitude can have a positive effect on the team.

Your pattern of responses shows that you tend to be patient with others, although you set high expectations for them. This trait comes from a combination of your sincerity and your strong desire for quality control. You provide the best performance you can on a daily basis, and you expect no less from others on the team. You may be disappointed when others don't meet those standards. Instead of complaining to others, a more proactive response might yield better results from such peers.

You score like those who tend to become vocally disappointed when standards aren't met. However, they may not express their disappointment directly to those who can do something about it. Instead, they sow seeds of discontent with others who don't have control of the situation. More effective results can be achieved by politely approaching the person in control of the situation, and explaining the reasons for the disappointment to them. In many cases, the person may not have been aware of the negative impact, and your input can help improve the situation.

You tend to be rather friendly and easy-going in your interactions with others, often demonstrating a positive sense of humor. This can be appropriately disarming in situations that are potentially tense. You have the ability to make a quip or comment that breaks the tension in a tight situation. In a positive climate, you maintain your spirit by feeding on your energy and sincere interest in others.

Your Style Overview

DISC describes you based on your observable behavior which can provide insights for others regarding your communication preferences and how you will likely interact with and respond to them.

Through this report you have an opportunity to discover (observe and evaluate) your behavioral responses in various environments. You can explore your reactions to a variety of situations and contexts, including the actions and reactions of others, to determine the most effective communication strategy or course of action.

Your Behavioral Style: Technician

Technicians will seek projects in their area(s) of expertise. They constantly challenge their own work and results. They are likely knowledgeable in many areas. They are easy to work with unless their expertise is challenged. They are quality oriented and expect strong results from themselves and others. They can become critical of others if they achieve poor results. At times, they can become too insistent on doing things a "certain way."

Below are some key behavioral insights to keep in mind and share with others to strengthen your relationships.

- Emotional characteristic: Need to be current and keep pace with others.
- Goals: High expectations for their own growth and advancement.
- How others are valued: Through demonstrated self-discipline, position and authority.
- Influences group: Projecting confidence in ability to create, implement and expand the correct activities and actions.
- Value to the organization: Skilled problem-solvers and experts in identifying solutions for their own area(s) of experience.
- Cautions: Over-focus on personal goals and may expect too much from others.
- Under Pressure: Can become inhibited and overly sensitive to critical feedback.
- Fears: Being too predictable or being unrecognized for their contributions.

WORD SKETCH - Adapted Style

DISC is an observable "needs-motivated" instrument based on the idea that emotions and behaviors are neither "good" nor "bad." Rather, behaviors reveal the needs that motivate that behavior. Therefore, once we can accurately observe one's actions, it is easier to "read" and anticipate their likely motivators and needs. This allows us to predict what will and will not please them, which makes for better relationships and a more harmonious and productive workplace! This chart shows your ADAPTED DISC Graph as a "Word Sketch." Use it with examples to describe why you do what you do and what's important to you when it comes to (D)ominance of Problems, (I)nfluence of other People, (S)teadiness of Pace, or (C)ompliance to Procedures and Rules. Share more about the specific needs (now maybe habits) that drive you in each area of FOCUS. Is your DISC point at levels 1 and 2? Then your emotions and needs are the opposite of those whose graph is at Levels 5 and 6 in that area.

Your Personalized DISC eGraphs for Monique Daniel

Your Adapted Style indicates you tend to use the behavioral traits of the CS style(s) in your selected focus. Your Natural Style indicates that you naturally tend to use the behavioral traits of the CSI style(s).

Your Adapted Style is your graph displayed on the left. It is your perception of the behavioral tendencies you think you should use in your selected focus (work, social or family). This graph may change when you change roles or situations. The graph on the right is your Natural Style and indicates the intensity of your instinctive behaviors and motivators. It is often a better indicator of the "real you" and your "knee jerk", instinctive behaviors. This is how you act when you feel comfortable in your home environment and are not attempting to impress. It is also what shows up in stressful situations. This graph tends to be fairly consistent, even in different environments.

If the bars are similar, it means that you tend to use your same natural behaviors in either environment. If your Adapted Style is different from your Natural Style, this may cause stress if over a long period of time. You are then using behaviors that are not as comfortable or natural for you.

The four-digit numbers (under the graphs) represent your segment numbers in DISC order and dictate the adjectives highlighted on the Word Sketch pages.

The higher or lower each D, I, S, C point is on your graph, the greater or lesser your behavior impacts your results at work and with others around you. Once aware, you can adapt your style to be more effective. Can you change? Of course! You do it every day depending on your situations. However, permanent behavioral change comes only with awareness and practice.

PeopleSmart Communication Tips

The following suggestions can help others who interact with you understand and become aware of your communication preferences. To use this information effectively, talk about your preferences with others and invite them to share theirs with you.

From the list below choose the two most important Do's and Don'ts when others communicate with you and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page 20.

When Communicating with Monique, DO:

- Provide clear, specific solutions, and support your position with pros and cons.
- Be certain that individual responsibilities are clear, in writing, and that there are no ambiguities.
- Be certain to conclude the communication with some modes of action and specific next steps for all involved.
- Join in with some name-dropping, and talk positively about people and their goals.
- Give Monique time to verify the issues and potential outcomes.
- Break the ice with a brief personal comment.
- Do your homework, because Monique's homework will already be done.

When Communicating with Monique, DON'T:

- Be disorganized or sloppy.
- Be unrealistic with deadlines.
- Rush the issue or the decision-making process.
- Push too hard.
- Get in the habit of manipulating ideas quickly.
- Use someone else's opinion as evidence.
- Make decisions for Monique.

Your Motivators: Wants and Needs

If motivators drive behavior, what motivates you? People are motivated by what they want or need in order to avoid those things they fear. Each of the four main style types have very different emotions, fears, wants, and needs, so those behavioral wants and needs you identified by your answers are compiled in this report.

The more fully your behavioral needs are met, the easier it will be for you to do your best with minimal effort. Knowing these points will help you understand yourself better. And, when you are not getting those met, it allows you to tell others what is important to you, and why.

This section lists your wants and needs which, once provided by your work environment will help you perform at your best.

Choose two of those most important motivators and needs and transfer these to the Summary of Your Style list on page 20.

You Tend to Be Motivated By:

- Sincerity from peers and colleagues.
- Complete explanations of systems and processes that impact your work environment.
- Sufficient time to adjust to change, so as not to disrupt systems and processes.
- A system of support to assist with details and follow-through.
- A home life that is supportive of the work demands.
- A supportive and encouraging working environment in which you are free to express yourself.
- Interesting activities outside of the work environment. Some with similar scores like to be involved in volunteer and community activities.

People With Patterns Like You Tend to Need:

- Peers with equal ability, competence, and work ethic.
- A reliable and competent support staff, especially when the work culture is under pressure.
- Clear and specific job descriptions and role responsibilities.
- Increased authority to delegate routine tasks and procedures.
- Options for increasing efficiency of certain methods or procedures.
- Reassurance that the long hours spent on a project are worthwhile in building a successful outcome.
- Participation in team efforts and activities.

What You Bring to the Organization

Monique, what are referred to as your "natural" strengths and style traits are those things other people instinctively see and value about you. They are identified below in this list. Once you can recognize these qualities in yourself, you can confidently enhance your effectiveness. Think of these qualities or strengths as part of the gift you are to others. When you are expressing them fully, you are happiest because they are "automatic" for you. Consider career choices that will allow you to regularly use these talents and preferences most often, and you'll be happier in the roles you have to carry out.

There is Summary of Your Style page on page 20, which is where you can make as a "quick reference sheet" of key things about you that you'd like others to know about you. (It's our job to 'teach others how to treat us' – which means putting us in roles we know we can excel in. For if we don't know and tell them, who is going to do it?) Use words from that page for resumes or to use in writing up bios or in career planning. Put at least two of your Strengths and two Style Traits you notice show up when you are enjoying success of any kind.

Your Strengths:

- You can be depended upon to do what you say you will do.
- Your remarkable consistency allows you to maintain a stable and predictable pace to complete complex projects. You demonstrate a tireless work ethic in getting the job done.
- You are deadline conscious, with excellent time-management skills.
- You may be seen as the hub of the wheel, always at the center of many activities.
- You are technically skilled and proficient in your area of specialty. You develop systems, utilities, and procedures with high-quality standards.
- You are a cooperative team player who respects organizational policies and protocol. You are able to get along with a variety of other behavioral styles.
- You are a reflective, critical thinker, able to comprehend complex or abstract systems, assist with solutions, and get others on board with the project.

Your Work Style Tendencies:

- You may tend to become vocally disappointed when standards aren't met, or when a project gets delayed.
- You are articulate about many different topics and issues.
- You place high expectations on yourself and others and are able to help coach others to higher standards of quality.
- You have the ability to focus on building your own skills and talents, while also assisting others on the team in building their own skills.
- You have a large base of knowledge, and a continuing appetite to learn more and seek expertise in specialized subjects.
- You tend to be rather friendly and easy-going in your interactions with others.
- You have the ability to handle people with patience.

You Tend to Be Most Effective In Environments That Provide:

- A place relatively free of interpersonal conflict and hostility.
- Public recognition for accomplishments.
- Opportunities to work with people with whom you have developed trust, rapport, and credibility.
- Support for critical thinking skills and logical, rather than emotional, decision making.
- A democratic environment with participatory management.
- Few sudden shocks or unexpected problems.
- Established practices, procedures, and protocols.

The C Style

Your behavior and needs under stress: Stress is unavoidable. The way you behave under stress can create a perception that is not what you intend which can influence your effectiveness and your interaction with others. You may need additional support during periods of stress. By knowing "how you show up" and what support could be helpful, and preparing yourself for how you behave in conflict as well as identifying strategies to reduce conflict, you can be much more successful in stressful circumstances.

Under Stress You May Appear:

- Resentful
- Resistant to change
- Slow to begin work
- Unable to meet deadlines
- Withdrawn

Under Stress You Need:

- Guarantees that they are right
- Accuracy
- Understanding of principles and details

Your Typical Behaviors in Conflict:

- Their tendency to be something of a loner may make it more difficult for other people to trust C's, although their demonstrated reliability tends to offset this.
- C's are quite uncomfortable with overt conflict, aggression and anger. C's will do whatever they can to avoid these situations and to avoid individuals with whom they have a disagreement.
- Although C's generally avoid overt conflict, they may speak out on a matter of principle in order to protect their high standards.

Strategies to Reduce Conflict and Increase Harmony:

- Be sure to share the reasoning behind your decisions. Failure to do so makes them seem arbitrary.
- Stand up for yourself with supervisors, friends, and coworkers rather than avoiding them or pretending to go along with them.
- Recognize that others may be more comfortable dealing with conflict, anger, and aggression. Expressions of anger or somewhat aggressive behavior by others are not necessarily personal attacks on you.

Potential Areas for Improvement

Everyone has struggles, limitations, or weaknesses. Oftentimes, it's simply an overextension of your strengths, which may become a weakness. For example, a High D's directness may be a strength in certain environments, but when overextended they may tend to become bossy.

As you consider ways to continue to improve to be a better communicator, we recommend you focus on no more than two at a time, practice and strengthen them, and then choose another area to focus on and improve.

Check the two most important areas you are committed to improve upon and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page 20.

Potential Areas for Improvement:

- You may be considered a grudge-holder, as you tend to have a long memory for wrongs committed.
- You may need help in prioritizing. Under pressure, all items may be ranked as most important.
- You may tend to trust people a bit too much and may suffer setbacks as a result.
- You may become verbally aggressive when the climate becomes unfavorable.
- You may provide a false sense of buy-in to others on the team, then may sometimes resist passiveaggressively.
- Because of your desire for completeness, you may encounter some difficulty in meeting deadlines.
- You may react on impulse rather than thinking things through before responding.

Summary of Monique Daniel's Style

Communication is a two-way process. Encourage others to complete their own DISC Online Assessment and then share the Summary Sheet with each other. By discussing preferences, needs and wants of the people you work with, socialize with and live with, you can enhance these relationships and turn what might have been a stressful relationship into a more effective one just by understanding and applying the DISCstyles information. Complete the worksheet below from the previous pages of this report.

PART III Understanding Others and Adaptability

Introduction: Understanding your own behavioral style is just the first step to enhancing relationships. To really begin to use the power of behavioral styles, you also need to know how to apply the information to other people and in other situations. Good relationships can get better and challenging relationships may become good.

People want to be treated according to their behavioral style, not yours.

People generally make the mistake of assuming that others interact and think the same way they do, and many of us grew up believing in The Golden Rule: treating others the way you would like to be treated. Instead, we encourage another practical rule to live by - what Dr. Tony Alessandra calls The Platinum Rule®: to treat others the way THEY want to be treated. This practice requires strategic adjustment made on a case-by-case basis, and adjusting your own behavior to make people feel more at ease with you and the situation is known as Adaptability.

It is important to remember that adapting our styles is not always easy! It may take some time, feel very difficult, or seem especially foreign in certain situations. Give it time, practice, patience and diligence and you will see relationship benefits.

ADAPTABILITY

Adaptability section includes:

- What is Adaptability?
- How to Identify Another Person's Behavioral Style
- Communicating with Each Style
- How to Adapt to the Different Behavioral Styles
  - Modifying Directness/Indirectness
  - o Modifying Openness/Guardedness
  - Modifying Pace & Priority
- Adapting in Different Situations
  - o At Work
  - In Sales and Service
  - o In Social Settings
  - o In Learning Environments
- Application Activities

What is Adaptability?

Adaptability is based on two elements: Flexibility and Aptitude. Flexibility is your Willingness and Aptitude is your Capability to adjust your approach or strategy based on the particular needs of the situation or relationship at a particular time. It's something you must cognitively choose to apply to yourself (to your patterns, attitudes and habits), not expect from others.

We practice adaptability each time we slow down for a C or S style; or when we move a bit faster for the D or I style. It also occurs when the D or C styles take the time to build the relationship with an S or I style, or when the I or S style focuses on facts or gets right to the point with D or C styles.

Adaptability does not mean an "imitation" of the other person's style. It does mean adjusting your openness, directness, pace, and priority in the direction of the other person's preference, while maintaining your own identity. Adaptable people know how to negotiate relationships in a way that allows everyone to win.

Your adaptability level influences how others judge their relationship with you. Raising your adaptability will increase trust and credibility; if you lower your adaptability, trust and credibility will decrease. Being more adaptable enables you to interact more productively with difficult people and helps you to avoid or manage tense situations.

Important Considerations:

- Adaptability is important to all successful relationships.
- No one style is naturally more adaptable than another.
- Adaptability is a choice:
  - You can choose to be adaptable with one person, and not so with others.
  - You can choose to be quite adaptable with one person today and less adaptable with that same individual tomorrow.
- People often adopt a different style in their professional lives than they do in their social and personal lives.
  - We tend to be more adaptable at work and with people we know less.
  - We tend to be less adaptable at home and with people we know better.

IMPORTANT DISTINCTION: Adaptability at its extreme could appear wishy-washy and two-faced. A person who maintains high adaptability in all situations may not be able to avoid stress and inefficiency. There is also the danger of developing tension from the stress of behaving in a "foreign" style. Usually, this is temporary and may be worth it if you gain rapport with others. At the other end of the continuum, no adaptability would cause others to view someone as rigid and uncompromising because they insist on behaving according to their own natural pace and priority.

Tips for Adapting Your Style

Adaptability is important to all successful relationships. People often adopt a different style in their social and personal lives. We tend to be more adaptable with people we know less. We tend to be less adaptable at home and with people we know better. Here are some tips and reflection questions to help you adapt your style:

Tips

- 1. Notice when and with whom you would like to be different.
- 2. Remember that you have developed your behavioral patterns over a long period of time based on the interpretation you have made up for yourself. Without really changing the way you think, (often called your Blueprint) you will no doubt revert back to your natural style.
- 3. Ask for feedback from others and give yourself time.
- 4. Use the Word Sketch page to choose behaviors that you would like to use and practice these in environments that you feel safe and comfortable in at first.

Reflection Questions

1. What new practice or strategy could you use?

2. What observable behavior and attitude could you use to get your desired result?

3. Who could you team up with that you would like to learn from and imitate, that naturally demonstrates the behavior – what do you see them doing and what do you hear them saying? Notice their energy.

4. What perspectives are you seeing things from?

5. What judgments do you have about yourself and others?

6. Which behaviors do you find the most difficult to use? What limiting belief do you have about yourself? Or about others?

7. What results do you want?

Remember... For things to change first I must change... You can CHOOSE to change!

Practicing Adaptability

Spend some time with people at home and at work that you know and trust who are different styles than you. Explore ways to communicate more effectively with them. Ask for support and feedback as you try new ways to communicate. Remember- tell them this is a skill you are building so they aren't surprised when you are behaving differently and can provide helpful feedback!

- Practice Identifying their style based on observable behavior
- Practice Modifying your Directness and Openness in conversation with them
- Practice Modifying your Pace and Priority
- Ask for feedback on your effectiveness in communicating with them
- Take some time to reflect on your experience and what worked or didn't work for you and for them
- Consider what you should repeat, and what you need to modify further to communicate as effectively as possible.

As you begin feeling more comfortable with adaptability and the needs of each style, try it with others!

Adaptability Activity

Select a relationship in which things have not gone as smoothly as you would like. Make a commitment to take the time to gain an understanding of the other person's behavioral style and take a few steps to adapt your behavior to improve the relationship.

Identify the behavioral style of the other person using the 2 Power Questions:

- Are they DIRECT or INDIRECT in their communication?
- Are they GUARDED or OPEN in their communication?
- Brush up on their style and look at ways to adapt your Directness and Openness when working with them.
- To further understand the tension that may exist in the relationship, notice the difference in preference in pace and priority and modify accordingly.
- Practice approaching them in the way you think THEY want to be treated. Remember, it may feel uncomfortable at first, but with practice and dedication to adapting, you will be amazed at the difference.

Adapting in Different Situations: AT WORK

DOMINANT STYLE

HELP THEM TO:

- More realistically gauge risks
- Exercise more caution and deliberation before making decisions
- Follow pertinent rules, regulations, and expectations
- Recognize and solicit others' contributions
- Tell others the reasons for decisions
- Cultivate more attention/responsiveness to emotions

INFLUENCING STYLE

HELP THEM TO:

- Prioritize and organize
- See tasks through to completion
- View people and tasks more objectively
- Avoid overuse of giving and taking advice
- Write things down

STEADY STYLE

HELP THEM TO:

- Utilize shortcuts and discard unnecessary steps
- Track their growth
- Avoid doing things the same way
- Realize there is more than one approach to tasks
- Become more open to some risks and changes
- Feel sincerely appreciated
- Speak up and voice their thoughts and feelings

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

HELP THEM TO:

- Share their knowledge and expertise with others
- Stand up for themselves with the people they prefer to avoid
- Shoot for realistic deadlines and parameters
- View people and tasks less seriously and critically
- Balance their lives with both interaction and tasks
- Keep on course with tasks, less checking
- Maintain high expectations for high priority items, not everything

Adapting in Different Situations: SALES AND SERVICE

DOMINANT STYLE

- Plan to be prepared, organized, fast-paced, and always to the point
- Meet them in a professional and businesslike manner
- Learn and study their goals and objectives what they want to accomplish, how they currently are motivated to do things, and what they would like to change
- Suggest solutions with clearly defined and agreed upon consequences as well as rewards that relate specifically to their goals
- Get to the point
- Provide options and let them make the decision, when possible

INFLUENCING STYLE

- Take the initiative by introducing yourself in a friendly and informal manner and be open to new topics that seem to interest them
- Support their dreams and goals
- Illustrate your ideas with stories and emotional descriptions that they can relate to their goals or interests
- Clearly summarize details and direct these toward mutually agreeable objectives and action steps
- Provide incentives to encourage quicker decisions
- Give them testimonials

STEADY STYLE

- Get to know them more personally and approach them in a non-threatening, pleasant, and friendly, but professional way
- Develop trust, friendship, and credibility at a relatively slow pace
- Ask them to identify their own emotional needs as well as their task or business expectations
- Get them involved by focusing on the human element... that is, how something affects them and their relationships with others
- Avoid rushing them and give them personal, concrete assurances, when appropriate
- Communicate with them in a consistent manner on a regular basis

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

- Prepare so that you can answer as many of their questions as soon as possible
- Greet them cordially, but proceed quickly to the task; don't start with personal or social talk
- Hone your skills in practicality and logic
- Ask questions that reveal a clear direction and that fit into the overall scheme of things
- Document how and why something applies
- Give them time to think; avoid pushing them into a hasty decision
- Tell them both the pros and cons and the complete story
- Follow through and deliver what you promise

Adapting in Different Situations: SOCIAL SETTINGS

DOMINANT STYLE

- Let them know that you don't intend to waste their time
- Convey openness and acceptance of them
- Listen to their suggestions
- Summarize their achievements and accomplishments
- Give them your time and undivided attention
- Appreciate and acknowledge them when possible

INFLUENCING STYLE

- Focus on a positive, upbeat, warm approach
- Listen to their personal feelings and experiences
- Respond openly and congenially
- Avoid negative or messy problem discussions
- Make suggestions that allow them to look good
- Don't require much follow-up, detail or long-term commitments
- Give them your attention, time and presence

STEADY STYLE

- Focus on a slower-paced, steady approach
- Avoid arguments and conflict
- Respond sensitively and sensibly
- Privately acknowledge them with specific, believable compliments
- Allow them to follow through on concrete tasks
- Show them step-by-step procedures
- Behave pleasantly and optimistically
- Give them stability and minimum of change

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

- Use a logical approach
- Listen to their concerns, reasoning, and suggestions
- Respond formally and politely
- Negative discussions are OK, so long as they aren't personally directed
- Privately acknowledge them about their thinking
- Focus on how pleased you are with their procedures
- Solicit their insights and suggestions
- Show them by what you do, not what you say

Adapting in Different Situations: LEARNING ENVIRONMENTS

DOMINANT STYLE

- Likes to learn quickly; may be frustrated with a slower pace
- Has own internal motivation-clock, learns for their own reasons, not for anyone else's reasons
- May like to structure their own learning design
- Does okay with independent self-study
- Defines own goals
- May have a short attention span

INFLUENCING STYLE

- Likes learning in groups
- Interacts frequently with others
- Responds to extrinsic motivation, praise, and encouragement
- Needs structure from the facilitator; may lose track of time
- Needs "what to do" and "when to do it"
- May exceed deadlines if left on their own and learning may be completed late

STEADY STYLE

- Accepts a balance between individual and group work
- Shows patience with detailed or technical processes
- Likes journaling and follow-through
- Prefers explicit instructions
- Wants to know the performance outcomes and expectations
- May need help in prioritizing tasks if a long assignment; may take criticism personally

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

- Prefers individual work over group interaction
- Accepts more impersonal training, such as remote or on-line
- Has high expectations of their own performance
- Will structure their own activities only with explicit goals and outcomes established
- Emphasizes details, deep thinking, and theoretical bases for the learning
- May get overly bogged down in details, especially if the learning climate is pressured

Collaborating with the DISC Styles

When you are working in a collaborative way you are working together for a common purpose. It is about taking responsibility for supporting others to learn and grow and about the sharing of ideas, information and opinions through formal/informal discussions. Collaboration is NOT the outcome or goal. Collaboration is a process that, when successful, align people's actions to accomplish a goal or solve a problem.

So communication effectiveness is critical when working in a collaborative way.

Use the following tips to help you to adapt your communication style with others – for leading and inspiring and for working more collaboratively together.

Adapt Your Communication Style

Developing Character Virtues

Your Primary DISC style is actually a pattern of behaviors that comes so easily to you that you don't even realize everyone else doesn't have them as well! Your unique strengths make it easy for you to excel in certain activities more than others such as Problems or People or Pace or Procedures.

Here are some examples:

- High D people love telling others what to do when they are in charge of the big picture tasks or Problems to solve.
- High I people seldom take on detailed tasks like their High C friends thrive in.
- High S people do NOT like telling others what to do. They prefer setting up the systems that make life steady, more appealing and easier to function in.
- High C people seem awed by how easily High I's can even talk to strangers and quickly make new friends!

Yet there are times when each of the styles secretly WISH they could be just like someone else. Do you? It is natural to think like this and everyone does sometimes! It just takes one more step in the process of SELF-DISCOVERY, called identifying and practicing the Character Virtues that will give you the results you seek!

You see your DISC behavioral style is how you DO things – those behavioral habits you do automatically – without thinking. And they are observable by others. But if you think about the people you really admire, you'll find that what makes someone popular, successful, and self-confident are the qualities they are BEING – assertive, friendly, patient or diligent.

Initially, these qualities come from what you are taught as your family values and what defines the culture you belong to. But in every culture there are universal Character Virtues that everyone has the capacity to exercise - no matter what behavioral style you now find yourself using most often!

You only need to identify them to practice and strengthen these Virtues in you.

Firstly it is about having the desire to get a different result, then gaining awareness of which virtue you seek, then knowing what language and behaviors to use that relate to it. VOILA! You've just shifted your style – and it no longer "has" you!

IMPORTANT DISTINCTION: Bottom line, we all have qualities or character virtues within us. They are universal – valued by all cultures. Virtues can be developed with coaching or an awareness and desire to generate more positive responses from others.

The Four DISC Styles Strength Virtues

The following chart shows some of the strength Character Virtues naturally used by the four DISC primary styles. Use it to identify how you would like to behave more often and in which situation, especially when in a leadership role.

If you are a High D and would like to become more patient then choose the virtue of patience and practice its behavioral definitions found on the following page. If you are a High I and would like to become more diligent then choose this virtue and practice its behavioral definitions.

Find your highest point in your DISC graph – D, I, S or C. Which Character Virtues would your friends and family say you express naturally? Which do you have to work at expressing? To shift or change a behavior, just choose the virtue's definition and practice it!

	D		S	C
DISC Style	Dominance	Influence	Steadiness	Compliance
-	Courage	Enthusiasm	Loyalty	Diligence
	Assertiveness	Optimism	Patience	Perseverance
Strength	Determination	Trust	Peacefulness	Righteousness

- 2. From the list of my DISC strength characteristics others would say that I naturally express these two character virtues:
- 3. From the list of the other DISC styles these are the two character virtues that I would like to practice and develop when leading and inspiring others:

Virtue Definitions

As seen in the High "Dominance" Style:

- Courage is embracing life fully without holding back, doing what must be done even when it's difficult or risky.
- Assertiveness is telling the truth about what is just, setting clear boundaries.
- Determination is persevering until we meet our goals and the power of intent that drives our dreams.
- Confidence is a sense of assurance that comes from having faith in ourselves and in life.
- Independence is making our own choices confidently without undue influence from others.
- Idealism is daring to have big dreams and then acting as if they are possible.

As seen in the High "Influence" Style:

- Enthusiasm is acting wholeheartedly with eagerness without holding back.
- Optimism is having a positive and cheerful outlook.
- Trust is positive expectation that all will be well.
- Friendliness is reaching out to others with warmth and caring.
- Generosity is giving and sharing fully and trusting that there is plenty for everyone.
- Cheerfulness is looking for the good in what ever happens and seeing the bright side to life.

As seen in the High "Steadiness" Style:

- Loyalty is unwavering faithfulness and commitment to those that we care about, through good and bad times.
- Patience is waiting peacefully with quiet hope and faith that things will turn out all right.
- Peacefulness is resolving conflict in a just and gentle way. An inner calm and tranquility.
- Tolerance is being open to differences and refraining from judgements.
- Consideration is giving careful thought to the needs of others.
- Cooperation is the willingness to seek common goals in service of a unified vision.

As seen in the High Compliance Style:

- Diligence is doing what needs to be done with care, concentration and single-pointed attention, giving our best.
- Perseverance is staying the course for however long it takes.
- Righteousness is impeccable integrity to what we know is right.
- Perceptiveness is Clarity of insight and an understanding that is intuitive, insightful and accurate.
- Integrity is keeping faith with our ideals (principles) and our agreements.
- Conscientious is doing one's work or duty thoroughly.

Developing Your Leadership Virtues

Leadership is not only about learning and applying the right skills, it is also about developing leadership qualities (character virtues), and being able to adapt to situations and other people's styles. Being a leader means you will have certain responsibilities; you must know right from wrong and stand up for what you believe in. Sometimes, being a leader, you will need to have the ability to "go against the crowd" - speaking up when you believe that something is wrong.

An outstanding leader is able to demonstrate the virtues of Trust, Diligence, Assertiveness and Confidence. They can handle conflict situations, have the ability to confidently influence others in a positive way and can apply reasoning skills for making the right decision at the right time.

Use the following table to identify your limiting behaviors and for developing the Leadership virtue that relates to your DISC style.

Style	Limiting Behavior	Quality (virtue)	Quality Definition
High D	<ul> <li>At times you do not exercise caution and deliberation before you make decisions.</li> <li>You often choose not to tell others the reasons for your decisions.</li> <li>At times you have difficulty expressing or responding to emotions.</li> <li>At times you do not recognize or solicit other's contributions.</li> </ul>	Trust	Trust – Is positive expectation that all will be well. It is having confidence that the right thing will happen without having to control it or make it happen.
High I High S	<ul> <li>Not viewing people and tasks more objectively.</li> <li>Not seeing tasks through to the end.</li> <li>Being sarcastic and superficial when you are under stress.</li> <li>Not following through on your agreements.</li> <li>You do not speak up and voice your thoughts and feelings at times.</li> <li>At times you automatically do what others tell you to do.</li> <li>You can become irritated when others are insensitive and impatient.</li> <li>You tend to not be open to some risks and</li> </ul>	Diligence Assertiveness	<ul> <li>Diligence – Doing what needs to be done with care, concentration and single- pointed attention, giving our absolute best.</li> <li>Assertiveness – Telling the truth about what is just, setting clear boundaries. You have the self-confidence to tell the truth about what is just.</li> </ul>
High C	<ul> <li>changes.</li> <li>You become withdrawn and headstrong when you are under stress.</li> <li>You view people and tasks too seriously and critically sometimes.</li> <li>Sometimes you do not shoot for realistic deadlines and parameters.</li> <li>You can become irritated when things are disorganized.</li> </ul>	Friendliness	Friendliness – Is reaching out to others with warmth and caring and caring is about listening with compassion.

Create a DISC POWER TEAM

Wouldn't it be amazing to have a DISC POWER TEAM where all members brought their best strengths to the table, and each of our challenges could be supported by someone who was skilled in the areas we struggle?

Considering the behavioral strengths, workplace behaviors and strength virtues for each style, who would be an ideal DISC POWER TEAM Member?

For an upcoming project, consider how your DISC POWER TEAM could accomplish greatness!

- Assign responsibilities based on strengths
- Determine what opportunities or challenges exist or may come up
- Give each Team Member the opportunity to showcase their skills and experience
- Check in regularly and discuss as a team how it's going
- Provide feedback regarding roles, strengths, needs, and any additional support required

Building and Maintaining Rapport/Productivity

What does it take to build and maintain rapport and productivity throughout the leadership process?

The Platinum Rule (Do Unto Others as They Would Have You Do Unto Them) can have a positive effect on almost every aspect of managing/leading others. With each of the four DISC behavioral types, for example, there's a different way to communicate and delegate tasks to them; compliment and correct them; and motivate and counsel them.

Learning these methods can quickly make you a more sensitive, effective leader of people. Sensitivity and tact are constantly demanded of leaders. If, as someone once said, tact is the radar of the mind, The Platinum Rule can be a valuable tune-up of your antenna.

By now, you know your primary DISC behavioral style along with growth opportunities to help you deal better with tasks and people. Keep those thoughts in mind.

Meanwhile, recognize that your power to influence springs from two sources. First, there's "position power." That's just what it sounds like, you're the leader, and a certain amount of power comes with that title.

So even if you have a title, you can't rely on position power alone to get you what you want. You also need "personal power." In fact it's now generally believed that a leader can't really lead others until those they are leading genuinely accept them.

So position power comes from being anointed by the hierarchy. But personal power comes from earning it, from developing it. Position power is a starting point for influencing people. But it's personal power that turns mere compliance into real cooperation.

The following section introduces you to ways that you can create authentic cooperation and collaboration when leading others:

- Developing people as a leader
- Adapting your communication style
- Supporting people to reach decisions
- Motivating people
- Complimenting people
- Coaching people
- Correcting people
- Delegating to people
- Acknowledging people

Adapting Your Communication Style

Communicating with C's	Communicating with D's
<ul> <li>Be well organized and clear in your communications.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Listen to their suggestions, their course of action and the results they are considering.</li> </ul>
• They search for logical conclusions.	<ul> <li>Find areas where you already agree.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Ask your questions in a more discreet, non- judgmental manner to elicit the points, objectives, or assurances C's want: "Lenny, I'm not trying to pressure you, but are you not interested in the auditor's position, or in any position?"</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Work backwards toward gaining agreement on the results you both want—and are willing to either mutually or independently allow the other to achieve: "Sarah, this format will give you the freedom to develop your branch your way and still allow Vern and Ellen to structure theirs another way without sacrificing time or morale."</li> </ul>
Communicating with S's	Communicating with I's
<ul> <li>Be ready to do more talking than listening; they don't feel comfortable when the limelight is forward on them</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Listen to their personal feelings and experiences.</li> </ul>

Supporting People to Reach Decisions

Helping C's Decide	Helping D's Decide
<ul> <li>Confirm they are open to discussing the problem or decision.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>D's tend to make autonomous, no-nonsense decisions.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>If they aren't ready, either set a definite time that's better for both of you or explore their concern in even pursuing this subject.</li> <li>Give them time and space to think clearly.</li> <li>When the situation is being explored, review your impression of the process: "My understanding is you'd like to think it over and figure out what time commitment you'd be able to make to the group. When may I call you about your decision?"</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>If the decision will help them meet their goals, they go for it; if not, they say no.</li> <li>One of the few times they put off reaching a conclusion is when it takes too much time/ effort doing the homework to determine the best alternative.</li> <li>Prevent this procrastination by simply providing a brief analysis for each option.</li> </ul>

Complimenting People

Complimenting C's	Complimenting D's
<ul> <li>Mention their efficiency, thought processes, organization, persistence and accuracy.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Mention their achievements, upward mobility and leadership potential.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Don't mix personal and professional comments unless you know them very well.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Omit personal comments and focus on their track record: "Jones, you've exceeded our</li> </ul>

Keep praise simple and concise.
Complimenting S's	Complimenting I's
<ul> <li>Complimenting S's</li> <li>Mention their teamwork and dependability.</li> <li>Remark about how others regard them, how well they get along with co-workers, and how important their relationship-building efforts have been to the company.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Complimenting I's</li> <li>Pay direct personal compliments to them when legitimately deserved.</li> <li>Mention their charm, friendliness, creative ideas, persuasiveness, and/or appearance (or better yet, all of the above).</li> </ul>

Acknowledging People

Acknowledging C's	Acknowledging D's
<ul> <li>Focus on your realization of how difficult it can be for them to attempt to meet the high personal standards they set for themselves.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>When it's appropriate to reward or reinforce their behavior, focus on how pleased you are with their results.</li> </ul>
<ul> <li>Cite specific and appropriate examples, which prove this point.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Mention how glad you are to be a part of the process working with them to make things better for both of you through cooperation.</li> </ul>
Acknowledging S's	Acknowledging I's
<ul> <li>Focus on how you sincerely appreciate their willingness to make things good for everyone</li> <li>Approach matters in a systematic, low-keyed, and understanding manner, and reinforce the importance of them sharing their ideas.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Focus on how glad you are they have succeeded in finding a pleasant solution to their concern or objective.</li> <li>Show you appreciate them for their openness and willingness to respond to you in a way that allows everyone to end up feeling good about the results.</li> </ul>

<ul> <li>Draw them out by asking, "How would you?" questions about problems.</li> <li>They express thoughts indirectly, so persist in your attempts to get them to talk.</li> <li>They need to plan for change so they can identify and bring under control any key considerations that have to be addressed.</li> <li>When possible, allow them to investigate possible repercussions, especially at the beginning stages. That way they'll become more comfortable with possible changes.</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Stick to the facts.</li> <li>Draw them out by talking about the desired results; then discuss their concerns.</li> <li>Focus on tasks more than feelings.</li> <li>Ask them how they would solve problems: "Anne, we've heard comments that need to be addressed. It seems some of your employees don't feel appreciated for the extra hours they've been putting in for you. They've worked 14-hour days to beat your deadline. How do you think we can bolster their morale?"</li> </ul>

<ul> <li>Specify the exact behavior that is indicated and how you would like to see it changed.</li> <li>Mutually agree on checkpoints and timeframes.</li> <li>Allow them to save face, as they fear being wrong. "Nelson, your work here is typically done neatly and on time. Now that we're switching to computers, you'll be able to turn out the same quality of work faster. I'd like you to take this computer class"</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Clearly suggest the needed improvement and establish a time to get back to you: "We need to streamline communication so that one hand knows what the other is doing. # Delegating to People

Delegating to C's	Delegating to D's
<ul> <li>Take time to answer their most critical questions about structure and/or guidance they require in a specific situation. The more they understand the details, the more likely they will be to complete the task properly.</li> <li>Be sure to establish deadlines.</li> <li>"Angela, the court date on the Mortimer case has been moved up to Monday, so we have to respond by speeding things up a bit. It will proceed almost as efficiently as if you researched everything by yourself if we enlist two associates to help you work, under your direction, on tasks you delegate to them and then review. Before getting started, do you have any preferences on the who's or how to's of this process that you think are essential to check with me at this time?"</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Give them the bottom line and then let them do their thing.</li> <li>So that they can be more efficient, give them parameters, guidelines, and deadlines.</li> <li>"We need to get that mall built a month sooner or we'll lose our shirts. Fourteen tenants are threatening to bail out of their contracts if we don't open in time for the holidays. Don't spend more than another $30,000, keep everything legal and out of the newspapers, and get back to me by Monday morning."</li> </ul>
Delegating to S's	Delegating to I's
<ul> <li>S's may be reluctant to ask others to do their own share of the work, so make a personal appeal to their loyalty and sense of sportsmanship.</li> <li>"Al, you're an example for this company of genuine cooperative spirit. Your staff wants to please you, so by giving everyone in your department just 10 of those names to call, you can all reach the goal together by noon tomorrow. Otherwise, you'll probably have a lot more difficulty reaching all those people by the target date." Give them the task, state the deadlines that need to be met, and explain why it's important to do it that way. "I'll need 500 copies of these summaries typed and collated by 5 p.m. today. Mr. Jeffries is getting back from New York two days early and he wants them by tomorrow morning."</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Receive clear agreements; set up check points/times to avoid long stretches with no progress reports.</li> <li>I's are often concept people who come up with plenty of ideas, but not necessarily the means of carrying them out, so steer them toward ways of assuring the implementation of those ideas.</li> <li>"Olivia, this proposal for the King Company looks good so far, but how about including more direct benefits for each employee. Marian has surveys filled out by each employee. Get together with her, bounce some ideas around, and then include more essential information about the eight or so key people in your proposal. Add some extra plus points on the others12 pages in all. In this manner, you should do the job very well. And, Olivia, thanks for making the extra effort on this project. It's really important to all of us."</li> </ul>

Taking Ownership of Your Destiny

Imagine what would have happened if you had successfully applied these principles and practices ten years ago... or even five years ago? Well, hundreds of thousands of people like you have already used these principles and experienced dramatic improvements in all their professional and personal relationships; more satisfaction in their dealings with customers and co-workers (family and friends, also!), and greater awareness of their own strengths and weaknesses. Many people report that they no longer feel like "just a boss"; they feel, behave and are treated like a trusted advisor. They have an increased ability to help people find solutions to their problems and are more adept at helping others grow and succeed.

For you to also share in the pleasure from experiencing these benefits, we encourage you to get started this very minute. First, think about the relationships you want to improve within the next year... the next month... the next week... even by the end of today! Develop a plan to meet those goals using The Platinum Rule and the other principles that make up the DISC Leadership Strategies.

Accept the Challenge

This first step requires your personal commitment to this challenge and your belief in these principles and putting them to work for you. Of course, any adapting your communication style takes practice, and you cannot realistically expect to put all of these ideas into effect immediately. However, the minute you start to manage people they way they want and need to be managed, you'll start to see immediate improvements.

Commit to Growth

"Change is inevitable... growth is optional." We love that saying because it's true. Right now, you have the option to take this moment and make a life-changing decision. You may decide to keep learning about yourself, your strengths and weaknesses, how you make decisions, how you come across to other people, etc... You may decide to learn more about DISC styles and apply your new knowledge in other relationships beyond management; relationships with your peers, colleagues, children, spouse and/or family.

Here's wishing you continued success!

So Now What?

This report is filled with information about each of your four learning style categories. Now you have a learning profile that will truly help you understand your own unique learning style patterns.

There are many suggestions in each of the four sections of this report, presenting opportunities for you to apply this valuable information. Take the next action steps required to make improvements in the specific learning styles sections most important to you and your success.

Do not put this report on a shelf or in a file. You have the opportunity to use this information to open a meaningful dialogue with others and improve the way you learn new information. Use this report as a reference tool. It contains a lot of information and it hasn't been designed for digesting in a single reading session.

Have fun making the minor changes in the way you attend, translate, relate and understand new material and immediately experience improved results. You will be pleasantly surprised!

Other Assessments?

There are five foundational assessments that both measure and educate users on the five different, but equally important, aspects of human behavior and/or cognition. As such, they form the foundation of our catalog and we have termed them our five Core Assessments:

1. DISC - Our most popular assessment and the world's #1 behavioral profiling tool. DISC provides a highly detailed analysis of each individual's Natural (i.e. personal/ internal) and Adaptive (i.e. workplace/external) behavioral styles. An individual's behavior is often the strongest indicator of fit - whether within a particular job, as the member of a team or as the leader of an organization. In essence, DISC predicts "How?" a person will behave within a given role or situation. Likewise, it offers the prescriptive lessons necessary to maximize the outcome of any interpersonal or workplace communication.

2. Motivators - The perfect companion assessment to pair with DISC, Motivators measures the Seven Universal Dimensions of Motivation that drive each of us: Aesthetic, Economic, Individualistic, Political, Altruistic, Regulatory and Theoretical. Where-as DISC predicts "How?" a person will behave, Motivators explains "Why?" If you are only using DISC, you are only scratching the surface of what assessments can offer individuals and organizations.

3. Emotional Intelligence (EIQ) - The Emotional Intelligence (EIQ) assessment helps users understand the correlation between the way they apply their current EIQ and the outcome of their interactions with others. This lends itself to improved decision-making, leadership, reading the emotions in others and engaging in a greater number of mutually beneficial workplace outcomes. Here is the key: EIQ can actually be improved and coached-up over time so it makes an excellent self-improvement assessment.

4. Learning Styles - Our fifth and final Core Assessment, Learning Styles, does just as its name implies – it identifies each individual's best means for learning and retaining new information. Some people like to process information through text, while others need visual support and images. Some learners best assimilate information alone, while others prefer to learn in groups. There are those who can grasp information intuitively, while others prefer to follow a strong sequential path. In short, understanding learning styles offers the key to maximizing an organization's training efficiencies, enlightening its management teams and even assembling top performing teams.

The Virtues Project™ is a global grassroots initiative to inspire the practice of virtues in everyday life, sparking a global revolution of kindness, justice, and integrity in more than 100 countries through Facilitators, Master Facilitators, Champions and Virtues Connections.

The Virtues Project empowers individuals to live more authentic meaningful lives, families to raise children of compassion and integrity, educators to create safe, caring, and high performing learning communities, and leaders to encourage excellence and ethics in the work place. It has inspired and mobilized people worldwide to commit acts of service and generosity, to heal violence with virtues.

The Five Strategies™ awaken the gifts of character, through inspiring programs, books, and materials that help us to remember who we really are and to live by our highest values.

Linda Kavelin-Popov, Dr. Dan Popov and John Kavelin founded the Virtues Project in Canada in 1991. It was honored by the United Nations during the International Year of the Family as a "model global program for families of all cultures". Learn more at:

How to Assure Assessment Accuracy? Independent & Qualified Testing at Standards Set by the APA and EEOC

"...this DISC assessment has one of the highest Cronbach scores in the DISC marketplace." - Assessment Standards Institute

The Assessment Industry's Past and Present

Assessments have been used since the mid-20th century, initially relied upon by Fortune 500s, calculated by highly skilled PhDs and produced by only a handful of trusted developers. With the advent of the internet in the 1990s, the ability to produce, market, and sell assessments became exponentially easier and less expensive. Since then, it has developed into a kind of "global cottage industry" with hundreds of new assessment developers, producing thousands of different assessments. Each developer purporting its assessments to be scientifically accurate instruments - sold, resold and used by individuals and organizations of all kinds; including many of our largest institutions like Fortune 500s, major universities, world governments, and even military. Frighteningly, this "global cottage industry," which produces data relied upon by millions, is entirely unregulated with nothing to ensure its consumers are receiving what they are being told and sold. There are zero requirements, safeguards, laws or regulations ensuring the consumer receives a scientifically accurate instrument - or even what the developers and sellers claim.

The Solution? Independent & Verifiable Testing by a Qualified Institution

The Assessment Standards Institute (ASI) provides our assessments with verifiably objective testing and reporting that meet standards set by the American Psychological Association (APA) and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC). This battery of tests is both voluntary and verifiably transparent. Our goal? To ensure this assessment's professional merit and scientific accuracy for you, the user. These reports are readily available upon request and include:

Construct Validity (APA Standards)

Construct validity is one of the most central concepts in psychology. It is the degree to which a test measures what it claims, or purports to be measuring. Researchers generally establish the construct validity of a measure by correlating it with a number of other measures and arguing from the pattern of correlations that the measure is associated with these variables in theoretically predictable ways.

Reliability - Cronbach's alpha (APA Standards)

This technique is regarded as one of the most robust measures of reliability and presents the highest 'bar' from which to compare. The readers should note that Cronbach's alpha is the method selected for this instrument, because of its high standards. The reader is encouraged to compare reliability coefficients presented herein to other vendors, and also to ask those vendors which reliability formulas they used to compute their reliability coefficients. Cronbach's alpha is a measure used to assess the reliability, or internal consistency, of a set of scale or test items. In other words, the reliability of any given measurement refers to the extent to which it is a consistent measure of a concept, and Cronbach's alpha is one way of measuring the strength of that consistency.

Disparate Impact (EEOC Guidelines)

Employers often use tests and other selection procedures to screen applicants for hire and employees for promotion. The use of tests and other selection procedures can be a very effective means of determining which applicants or employees are most qualified for a job. However, use of these tools can also violate the EEOC Guidelines if they disproportionately exclude people in a protected group by class, race, sex, or another covered basis. Importantly, the law does allow for selection procedures to select the best candidates based on job related requirements. If the selection procedure has a disparate impact based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, the employer is required to show that the selection procedure is job related and consistent with business necessity. If discrimination exists, the challenged policy or practice should therefore be associated with the skills needed to perform the job successfully.
